Concept Note

The famous proverb, "It takes a village to raise a child" rings true to this day. Even as we claim that children are the future of our nation, there are significant lapses in ensuring justice to the child. When a child goes astray, it reflects the neglect of society. Thus, a child in conflict with the law, should be seen not merely as a trouble maker who needs to be punished, but as a victim of failed social responsibility. Such a child is in dire need of care and protection, just as a child survivor of crime, through legislative and judicial intervention.

This programme is designed to enable the participants to engage in a closer analysis of the salient features of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 [JJ Act] and the role of various stakeholders in the juvenile justice system, particularly the functionaries of the Juvenile Justice Board.

It is pertinent to note that reform and rehabilitation- and not punishment- are the guiding principles of the JJ Act, 2015. Recognition of and respect for rights as human being and as a child is an important first step in the rehabilitation of a child in conflict with law, followed by extending the cause of social reintegration by providing for institutional care and other services to children.

Despite the constitutional mandates, legislative affirmations and judicial pronouncements, the child due to lack of agency and not being heard, is denied the right to have a safe childhood, making them prone to abuse and violence. Access to justice is the overarching principle ensuring the realisation of child rights. Access also implies availability and affordability, and in this light, the realisation of the right to free legal aid, and the expedient disbursement of the victim compensation fund, are crucial. The District Legal Services Authority has been instrumental in realising the former right of all needy sections of society including children, as required by the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 enacted in furtherance of Article 39-A of the Constitution. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has reinforced this ideal vide its decision in holding that legal aid is not a mere formality.

Holistic education serves to protect and empower the child, and thus, the right to education is the cornerstone of child rights. However, this right is significantly eroded by child marriage, which is a much prevalent social evil, wherein the child is robbed of their innocence and is imposed with adulthood without due regard to its disastrous consequences. Therefore, the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006 needs to be read together with the Fundamental Right to Education enshrined in Article 21-A of the Constitution of India, which has led to the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009.

This programme is intended to equip the participants on the mechanisms for restoring justice to children in conflict with law and child victims in their line of work. The outcome of the programme would enable the participants to implement the mechanisms and proliferate the same as best practices to be adopted in their respective districts.

The pandemic has further pushed the child to a precarious condition, leaving them with a bleak future. This programme presents an opportune time for judicial officers to re-orient themselves on centring the best interests of the child, in order to empower the child, on whom the future of our society rests.

LET ME BE A BUTTERFLY!
*She trespassed your land,
Laid me in your Lawn!*

*I Managed to eat
Few of your leaves and
Destroyed some plants*

*Oh! Gardener!
Do not stamp me out!*

*Few days later- I
Cocooned like a shell;
To protect me from hell*

*Oh! Gardener!
Crush me not
To a cruel death!*

*Flapping my wings;
Causing no typhoons!*

*Oh! Gardener!
Believe no Lorenz!*

*Netting me Strong;
Letting out not
Is not at all right!
Have no Strength
Today to fight;
Morrow I may not
Be a Butterfly!*
